

I wish to see the morse code test requirements for obtaining an amateur radio license ended. It is frustrating many quality individuals who would otherwise be an asset to the community. I passed my code test and upgraded recently. There are others who could pass the tests easily. But for some, the sounds are hard to distinguish. They simply cannot copy code. I do hope some spectrum is set aside for code, though. It is a part of radio that should be utilized if desired. Thank you for your time.
